A ROUND OF TALK.

THE EARLY SPRING.

By Lula Whedon Mitchell.

There is a charm in the early Spring,
In the smell o' the mould when the wind comes cold,
In he flashing dip of the swallow's wing,
In the cowslip's cloth-of-gold,
Spread on the marsh's ragged edge
By shallow pool and frost-rimed sedge—.

A charm the mellower season lacks,
When the free brook leaps down its rocky steeps,
And Echo answers the wooman's axe;
When over the spot where the bluebell sleeps
The dumb sod feels the first, light thrill
Of a promise wee buds fulfil.

Ah, to spy when the alder shoots show pink
A shy brown breast on a quiet nest,
To mark by the foamy river's brink
Willows in silver greenery dressed—
Hearts that are Winter-worn, wake and sing—
There is a charm in the early Spring,

Out on the hill, when the day is new,
Then one may capture the spirit of rapture,
Born of the dawn, baptized by the dew,
High on the hill, in the breezes pure,
One may stand, for the moment, a god—
Full aware of it, and unawed.

—Delineator,

FALSE IMPRESSION — The impression seems to be out among the farmers and country people of the county that the town authorities will require any one bringing any produce or stock to town to sell, to pay a license for the privilege. The impression is an erroneous one entirely and it is an injustice to the town, that such a report should be circulated. There is a law requiring professional peddlers to pay a license for selling their goods in town but the regulation does not apply to farmers or others who desire to sell anything that they have produced at their homes. It is to the interest of the business men and citizens of the town to encourage in every way possible, trade intercourse with the country people, for upon the patronage and good will of the farmers depends in a large measure the prosperity of the merchants and business men of the town. It is said that the proprietors of the stores at the cross roads and small towns of the county are responsible, to some extent, for the persistency with which the report has been circulated, but the farmers should turn a deaf ear to all such talk. Bring on your chickens and eggs and fruits and vegetables and sell them wherever the best prices prevail. The town authorities acting for the town people will not be permitted to pass any regulations to hamper the country people in their trade relations for our rural friends are needed and will be welcomed "in our midst."

MORE REVENUE—The question of revenue is said to be agitating the minds of the worthy members of the town board just now and several plans are being discussed with the end in view of increasing the income of the town. Since the recent improvement and growth of the town it has become apparent that it will be necessary to do something to increase the revenue in order to keep abreast with the times. The expense of supporting water works and electric lights for public use must be met and the the streets are in bad and immediate need of repairs. Although the income from the regular town taxes is greater than heretofore owing to the increase in the assessment value and to the fact that the taxes are collected closer than in the past, still it is estimated that there will be a deficit unless something is done to yield more revenue. It is proposed to do as other towns throughout the state are doing and that is to levy a license tax on all business concerns and professional men in the town. The proposition will doubtless raise a kick from those called upon to do the paying but it appears to be about the only practical solution of the problem. The tax rate is up to the constitutional limit and a small license tax required of all business concerns alike would bring in a good revenue for the town and still at the same time would not prove a great hardship on any one interested. The matter is being discussed but it is not likely that any definite steps will be taken in the matter until the fate of the bill now before the legislature to make Springfield a fifth class city is known. The bill has passed the House and has yet to be taken through the Senate. It is to be hoped that the measure will not be lost in the rush at the end of the legislative session.

DESERVES IT.—Speaking of the bill to change the town of Springfield into another class if there is anything in being deserving of recognition the bill should become a law. It is the only bill from Washington county that has been before the Kentucky Legislature for four years. It was introduced at last session by Representative C. F. Bosley but was lost in the shuffle never having been bronght to a vote. The same bill has been brought up this session by Representative Dohoney and has been allowed to pass a little farther along. It seems that the rights of a county so modest in its demands on the legislature should receive some recognition but it appears that the secret of success at getting anything from a legislature is to go after all you can get and go after it strong and keep after it.

WHEAT CROP — The annual alarm about the condition of the wheat crop throughout the country is abroad. It is nearly always the case that at about this time of the year there comes the announcement from the farmers that the whole wheat crop is ruined but many of these ruined crops turn out all right. Wheat at this time of the year always looks bad. It is true that the winter just passed was a hard one on wheat as all winters of extremely low temperature and few snows are, but the chances are that in a few weeks the ruined crops will revive and the fields which now look so bare and desolate will develop into velvety swards of green in which event the gloomy countenance of the worthy wheat grower will doubtless develop into a picture of hope and happiness.

Lebanon Court Day.

County Court day brought to town Monday a good sized crowd and business in all lines was brisk. There was a variety of stock on the market with the exception of hogs and sheep. Horses, mules and cattle were plentiful and found ready buyers. While no hogs were offered for sale there were on the streets a number of the variety who have so little self respect that they fill up on the develish stuff that blights many a home and then go forth to make a sorry spectacle of themselves wobbling from one side of the street to the other. There was more drunkenness Monday than we have seen for a long time.—Falcon.

Mystery Explained

The story that has been handled by many of the leading dailies of one Dan Wilson being attacked by and kept housed all one day by crows is true as far as we know and as he is said to have his abode in Washington county, not far from this place, we have not heard the story denied, But since the above mentioned occurence it has been reported that recently, a cloud passed over the Beachland vicinity from which fell a shower of blood, As the fact became circulated the people for miles around visited the scene in order to satisfy themselves as to the correctness of the statement To the simple minded and superstitious people, this singular phenomenon would seem to have a supernatural origin, but Mr. Wilson swore vengance on the crows and as Beachland is near him and in the same county, the shower of bloo dis easily explained. Dan took a terrible revenge on the crows, we are told, by inducing them to eat a powerful explosive the secret of which is known only to himself (probably nito-glycerine) but it was something which, at a certain altitude, would explode, even in a crows stomache Therefore, it is little wonder that after thousands of crows had been fed on the stuff and then set to flight that a shower of blood should fall in Beachland or any other land —Cornishville corespondent of Harrodsburg Democrat.

Cholera Days.

FIRST EPIDEMIC IN 1833 WHEN A HUNDRED AND EIGHTY PEOPLE DIED IN TWO WEEKS.

Among the exciting periods in the early days of the settlement of Springfield and Washington county, as related by some of the older inhabitants who are familiar with the facts by having heard them discussed by their fathers and other older citizens, none bring up more interesting reminiscences than the accounts of those days when the terrible disease Asiatic Cholera visited the town.

The first time of which there is any record that the cholera became epidemic in the town was in the spring of 1833 and although the visitation was short it was terribly fatal. In a period of two weeks no less than 180 people of the town fell victims to the terrible malady. Those were exciting days indeed, and many are the thrilling tales of experiences handed down by the inhabitants of the town. In the year 1833 it seems that cholera was more or less prevalent all over Kentucky. It is supposed to have been brought up from New Orleans. The epidemic struck Springfield in the late spring or just when the cherry crop was ripe. It is related that strong men when stricken with the disease would become deathly sick in an instant and would be dead in an hour. In those days there were a great many slaves owned in and around Springfield and the negroes were easy victims to the disease. Quite a number of prominent citizens and members of their families also died. The town was panic-stricken and all business suspended, as many of the inhabitants as could get away fled to other points to escape the contagion so that only a few faithful ones were left to attend the sick and bury the dead.

Among those to remain to render that service was a negro slave who showed himself to be a real hero. His name was Louis Sansbury owned by a hotel keeper of the place by the name of Sansbury. When the cholera broke out this negro unlike many of his fellow slaves who wanted to flee for their lives, pitched in and applied himself to the task of caring for the sick and burying the dead. He finally went to the grave yard and with what help he could get labored incessantly in digging graves and assisting in burying of the unfortunate victims of the scourge. Many of the merchants and other citizens of the town knowing the trustworthiness of Louis fled the town and left the keys to their stores and residences with him and it is said that that negro slave was the custodian of nearly every store in the town. After the epidemic had run its course, which was in about three weeks, the people who had left the town began to return and business matters were resumed. The faithful negro slave was not forgotten however and the citizens made up a purse and purchased his freedom of his master and also built for him a livery stable and stocking it with horses set him up in business. Louis Sansbury lived and continued in business in Springfield for 30 years after the occurence and always stood high as a citizen.

The second visitation of cholera to Springfield was in 1854 and is well remembered by quite a number of people here to-day. The outbreak like the one in 1833 also caused a panic among the people and many fled to other places to escape. Although this epidemic was not near so fatal as the first one there were a good many deaths, several prominent citizens being among the number.

Shooting in Lincoln

Former Marshal J. A Shannon of Crab Orchard was shot and dangerously wounded at that place Monday afternoon by Alex Beasley, a hotel man. Shannon received one ball in the breast and one struck his left thigh, breaking the bone. Beasley is chairman of the Board of Town Trustees. and has had some trouble with Shannon about the surrender of the tax books In passing along the street this afternoon Beasley stopped in front of Wallin's saloon and was talking to a man when he heard Shannon inside using abusive language against him He called Shannon out and during the dispute that followed it is alleged, Shannon seized Beasley by the collar and the shooting followed. Beasley surrendered and gave a $500 bond.

Oil in Mercer

Mercer has fallen into line in oil prospecting, A Mr. Sanders of Dugansville this county and some Lawrenceburg parties have secured oil leases on several hundred acres of land between Dugansville and Duncan, It is their purpose to bore for oil on the Merrit Cunningham farm near Duncan where a well was bored 70 years ago to find water from which salt could be made. The parties were successful and made salt until the water became too weak for the purpose. They then bored deeper, but instead of finding salt water their drill found an oil stream that filled the hole to the surface, As oil was of no value to the salt makers they plugged the hole with hemp which remained there until removed a few days since by Mr. Sanders and others.—Danville Advocate.

Didn't Bluff.

It was the intention of the Blue Grass Consolidated Traction Co. to run its line through Woodford County entering Versailles with their proposed line from Lexington to Frankfort, but when Versailles was asked for a franchise she refused to permit the company to run through their main streets. The Traction Co. refused to enter the county unless such was granted but Versailles stood "pat" and tried the bluff. Georgetown then called for a hand in the game and was the winner. Men will be put to work at an early date along the line and Georgetown wi'l greatly profit by Versailles' misfortune.

The Road Problem.

Possum Ridge, March 4th 1902.
Editor NEWS LEADER.

I saw in the LEADER some correspondants' views on the public roads in our county. I am willing to admit the road question is the most knotty problem the Fiscal Court has to contend with. I see some views from Old Foxy taxpayer, he says tax buggies one dollar. Under our constitution we have no law for double taxation so we cannot retax buggies and so far as hucksters waggons are concerned I think we have no law to tax them. Now let us see who is trying to keep up our roads. It is easily possible for farmers to keep country roads in a better condition than most of them are doing at present. The individual can afford to do road mending on the same principle that he regards fencing and building. It pays and a land owner ought to feel as much shame, even guilt, before the general public, over a mud hole that can be drained or a choked up sluice along his premisies which he has thrown shock-fodder into to his cattle, as as we have observed all over the county in our travels, as he ought over neglected cattle or a display of filth on his own farm. Now let us see under our present road system how we are getting on. The road overseers are instructed first to work out the money appropriation and then work free until roads are put in good traveling condition but I fail to find any free work. I am afraid some of our overseers fail to do their duty and try to get the largest end of the appropriation. One of our sheriffs tells me he has paid one overseer in his ride $28. It was the intention for each hand to have his part of road fund as nearly equal as possible. I believe our court will do all it can for the roads of the county—but how to better the system is the problem.

Now I will give my views on the question. My observation is that the water is damaging the roads worse than the traveling In the first place have all fences removed off of the right of way so the ditches can be cleared out and the water allowed to pass. Then appoint a supervisor of roads for the county who can go over the roads at least two or three times a year and let the roads out to the lowest bidder for so many perches of metal and so much ditching and after it is done in good order make his report to the County Judge who will order the County Treasurer to pay each contractor the amount reported by supervisors who can be employed at about what the county pays the six magistrates at this time for looking after roads. Hoping you will publish same I remain yours in the interests of the county.

NIMROD HENDREN.

Murder in Mercer.

Edmund Houp was found dead in his house in Kentucky river bottom one mile below Munday's Landing Saturday morning while his aged wife was lying in another part of the room with wounds on her temple, forehead, and face. She was alive but unconscious. Mr. Houp was 87 years old and his wife 82. He was a veteran of the civil war and drew a pension and it was generally known that the couple who lived by themselves kept money about the house, and this leads many to believe that murder had been committed. In support of this it is said that $173 that they had on hand is missing. On Saturday morning a man named Neal, who lived a mile away and who kept the old people supplied with wood, and who often looked after their welfare noticed that no smoke was issuing from the Houp home. He went to investigate and on entering the house found the old man lying dead near the door and the aged woman unconscious on the floor beside the bed, A gentleman who visited the scene Sunday and who believes that it was the work of a demon, says the supposition is that the old gentleman arose from bed and opened the door in response to a rap of the murderer, A very slight abrasion on the neck was the only mark about him and the gentleman believes that he was choked to death. He was very infirm and it would not have taken much force to have caused the vital spark to leave his feeble frame. According to the theory of this gentleman the murderer then attacked the old lady in bed and in her struggles she fell to the floor. When Neal entered the house he found that the fire had completely died out and the ashes were cold. This shows that the old couple had lain for hours as he found them One report that reached here Monday afternoon was that Mrs. Houp revived long enough to say that as soon as she got better she would tell all about it. Before she could be questioned she again relapsed into unconsciousness. A puzzling thing in connection with the affair is that for an honr or two after they were found an oder of chloroform pervaded the room. A telephone message to this paper late Tuesday from the two gentlemen in the Munday's Landing neighborhood is to the effect that the people in the vicinity generally discredit the foul play theory. Decatur Houp of Wilmore, son of the old people is of that opinion. A search of the house Tuesday morning brought to light an old pocket book containing about $3. This leaves a goodly share unaccounted for but the son believes that his parents concealed it about the premisies and that it will be found, The dead man was partly paralized and some believe that the old lady was stricken with paralysis and fell and that the marks about her face were made in that way; and the shock of seeing her in that condition and he unable to help her killed Mr. Houp. Coroner Gibbs held no inquest because the body had been taken across the river into Woodford county and buried before any one here knew anything about it. A telephone message from Mr, Joe Dean of Braxton received by the Hereld at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening says that Mrs, Houp has never revived and that her death is only a question of a few hours. He also informed us that the impression now is that she was striken with paralysis and fell and injured herself. Braxton is four miles from the Houp home, —Harrodsburg Hereld.

THURSDAY MARCH 13, 1902.

One of the best acts of the present Kentucky Legislature is the passage of the State Fair Bill which makes an annual appropriation of $15,000 for premiums to be offered at the State Fair. A state fair when conducted successfully is a good thing to encourage the stock breeding and farming interests of the state and now that financial support is assured, interest should be worked up in it so every county may be represented. Another point which the promoters would do well to bear in mind is that, if possible, select some place in Kentucky other than Louisville in which to hold the fair. Louisville people care nothing for a fair, as was clearly demonstrated at the one held there last year and if the fair is to be supported by people from the interior of the state why not have it in some interior town. We are in favor of Springfield for the next State Fair and will guarantee the full support of the people of the town and county which is more than Louisville can do.

Another Congressman has taken a crack at the State Department. This time it was Representative Burleson of Texas who denounced Secretary Hay for declining to request the British authorities to furnish passports to the Rev. Hiram W. Thomas and wife, who desire to distribute relief funds among the Boers.

The Kentucky Legislature is getting a move on during the closing hours of the session. Twenty bills were passed on Tuesday one of the most important being that authorizing the city of Louisville to sell its million dollars worth of stock in the Louisville Gas Co., and put the money in the sewers—as an improvement.

The Boers are still a serious "worry" to say the least to the British in South Africa. In a recent engagement the British officer Gen. Methuen was captured and it is now feared may be executed in retaliation for the slaying of Gen. Scheeper a Boer officer while a prisoner of the British forces.

Editor Walton has sold the Harrodsburg Democrat to Mr. Charles Lewis of the Shelby Sentinel. Mr. Lewis is a good newspaper man and it takes a good one to run two papers in different towns—and run them.

Spring has come with its bright sun. Its grasses and sweet flowers have begun lifting their heads above the earth telling that winter is gone. Yes, the many birds are singing it, the rippling brook is telling it, and the merry boys as they go leading their teams down yonder hill side are whispering it in song. Now the burning of plant beds and strewing of seed will go on, the planting of trees and the repairing of fences will be noticed by the passer by and we implore every one to plant a few trees along the roads. I will say nothing about the turnpikes as they are a thing of the past. The only way is to vote the toll gate back and let roads go until every one is for it. Getting Thin is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: overwork and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it--true--but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however; you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work--you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

DEATH BY ARSENIC.

The Way This Poison Acts Upon the Human System.

When a single dose of arsenic in sufficient quantity to be felt has been taken, colicky pains, bowel disorder and perhaps nausea result. In the course of an hour after a poisonous dose has been taken an intense burning pain is felt in the esophagus and stomach. This spreads to the entire anterior portion of the lower part of the trunk. A sense of constriction at the throat and an acrid, metallic taste accompany the pain. Then vomiting and relaxation of the bowels begin. As the case progresses the symptoms increase in intensity. Then comes a thirst that water will not allay, although it apparently increases the stomach disturbance. The victim groans and writhes.

Now he implores the doctor to save him. Then he begs to be killed and put out of pain. The extremities become icy. The pulse is small, feeble and frequent, and the breathing is labored, embarrassed and painful because of abdominal tenderness. The surface of the body becomes dark and of that bluish color that medical men call cyanosed. Violent cramps add their torture, exhaustion becomes collapse, convulsions or coma ensues, and death ends the agony. This torture lasts sometimes from five to twenty hours.

In some cases these symptoms occur, but in a modified form, and the doctor will apparently get the better of the disease. The remission will be but for a day or two. Then the abdomen will swell, and icy coldness will pervade the frame. Shivering will become pronounced trembling, then cramps, convulsions and death.

Birds Are Like Human Beings.

Canaries, like human beings, vary very much in character, some cocks being so indifferent and idle that they will let the hen do all the work of building and rearing, while they themselves sit and plume their feathers. Others, again, are perfect gentlemen in their manners, waiting on the hen with a quiet courtesy and seeing that all she requires is at once brought to her. Again, the hens vary in disposition, some hens behaving in a quiet, modest way, attending to their young ones with regularity, while others are in a constant state of chatter with their husbands, pecking and arguing with them every time they go near. Thus we see that these little birds have their tiffs and domestic quarrels, not unlike ourselves.—Chambers' Journal.

MARITIME EXPRESSIONS.

Used In a Metaphorical Sense, They Are Quite Common.

Maritime expressions, used metaphorically, are, in fact, very common. We say a couple are "spliced," a young man is the "mainstay" of his family, an intruder "puts his oar in," the member from Wayback "steers through," a man is "hard up," sometimes "taken aback" or has "the wind taken out of his sails," a toper is "slewed," a loafer "spins a yarn," sometimes "tries the other tack," and a ruler "steers the ship of state" through troublesome times.

This last metaphor is extremely ancient, by the way. Horace refers to Rome as a ship at sea, and Plutarch says the Delphic oracle referred to Athens in the same way. A Tamil saying embodies a like metaphor, "The soul is the ship, reason is the helm, the oars are the soul's thoughts, and truth is the port." An old collection of English proverbs contains this one: "The tongue is the rudder of our ship." A Malay maxim says, "The boat which is swamped at sea may be bailed out, but the shipwreck of the affections is final."

Aristophanes, Plautus and others use an expression which comes down to us as an English saw, "To row one way and look another." An old English proverb (1614) was, "It is not good to have an oar in every one's boat."—United Service.

Last Fate Worse Than His First.

Jones—Yes, and he has a hard time paying her alimony, I suppose.

Two Trials.

Tess—Aren't you going to choir rehearsal tonight?

Jess—No.

A Way to Kill.

Host—Write 'em a prescription, doctor!

It is stated that when the husband is younger than the wife the offspring is more apt to be a girl than a boy.

When Kissing Was Costly.

The case of the People against Murline, heard by the governor of New Haven colony in council on May day, 1660, indicates the attitude toward unlicensed kissing in those times. It appeared that Jacob Murline and Sarah Tuttle had been caught kissing each other.

Jacob tried to throw the blame on Sarah, saying he thought she had "with intent let fall her gloves." Sarah denied the intent. Jacob then admitted that he "tooke her by the hand, and they both sat down upon a chest, but whether he kyssed her or she kyssed him he knows not, for he never thought of it since until Mr. Raymond told him that he had not layde it to heart as he ought."

The stern governor, after duly lecturing the guilty parties on the enormity of their offense, decreed that "the sentence therefore concerning them is that they shall pay either of them a fine of 20 shillings to the colony."

Bereavement and Business.

The following curious advertisement is taken from a Spanish journal: "This morning our Saviour summoned away the jeweler, Siebald Illmaga, from his shop to another and better world. The undersigned, his widow, will weep upon his tomb, as will also his two daughters, Hild and Emma, the former of whom is married, and the latter is open to an offer. The funeral will take place tomorrow. His disconsolate widow, Veronique Illmaga. P. S.—This bereavement will not interrupt our employment, which will be carried on as usual, only our place of business will be removed from 3 Lessi de Leinturiers to 4 Rue de Missionaire, as our grasping landlord has raised the rent."—St James Gazette.

To Cure the Stammerer.

It is said that stammerers rarely if ever show any impediment of speech when speaking in whispers. On this fact a method of treatment has been advocated, which is as follows: For the first ten days speaking is prohibited. This will allow rest to the voice and constitutes the preliminary stage of treatment. During the next ten days speaking is permissible in the whispering voice, and in the course of the next fifteen days the ordinary conversational tone may be gradually employed.

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. The indications are that the deal between the Springfield Water and Electric Light Co., and Mr. Fred Balcom the representative of the Central Guarantee and Trust Co., of Philadelphia, is all off or nearly so. A letter received from the Philaphia concern here the other day announced that Mr. Balcom was no longer connected with that company. Nothing further has yet been heard from Mr. Balcom so that the chances for carrying out the deal look slim and a long ways off.

Maro the magician delighted the audience which nearly filled the Opera House on last Friday night with his feats in legerdermain. Maro is all right as an entertainer. His tricks are mystifying and he has a pleasing way about him that captivates and amuses an audience. The musical part of the entertainment alone was well worth the price of admission and Maro's performance on his one-string instrument was truly wonderful. Mrs. Maro and the other assistants in the entertainment were fully equal to their parts and there have been few performances this season that pleased so well as Maro.

Immediately after the marriage the bridal couple left for Louisville from which place they will visit the groom's parents in this county then return to Springfield where they will reside. The bride is a daughter of the late F. M. Lanham and has many admirers for her beauty and attractiveness. Mr. Hardesty is a young man with a host of friends in Springfield and Washington county who will wish him and his bride all happiness possible in their wedded life.

CANADA'S CONGRESS.

MEASURES SOON TO COME BEFORE DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Much Work Planned For a Short Session—Demand For Change In Divorce Laws—Premier Laurier to Attend Coronation.

A short session is predicted for the Canadian parliament, which opens at Ottawa on the second Thursday in February. Prorogation will probably take place on or before May 1 in order to allow the prime minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, ample time to prepare for his trip to England to attend the coronation of King Edward in June. Sir Wilfrid will be accompanied by most if not all of the provincial premiers—there are eight of them—and a picked escort of Canadian militia.

Recent byelections have resulted in a considerable addition to the government's already large majority, giving it the assurance that any measure that it proposes can be successfully carried against the combined opposition of its political opponents.

Probably one of the first questions that will come up at this session is that of payment by Canada of the expenses of the third contingent, the first portion of which recently left Canada for South Africa. The victory of the government in the recent elections makes it clear that the great mass of the English speaking people of Canada strongly favor the idea that the Dominion should pay the expenses of its troops operating against the Boers.

A strong effort is about to be made to bring back Canada's high standing as a shipbuilding nation, and one of the most important questions to come before parliament will be the granting of bounties to encourage that industry. On the great lakes there are not at present nearly enough Canadian vessels to handle its rapidly growing grain trade, which has increased 20,000,000 tons during the past ten years. The government will be urged to change its policy of subsidizing foreign built vessels and devote the money heretofore spent in this way to aid home shipbuilding.

CENTRAL TOWER, HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT, OTTAWA.

The subject of a fast Atlantic mail service is likely also to be seriously considered. Recent negotiations between the Canadian government and the British colonial office seem to indicate that the long standing difficulty as to the amount of subsidy will be overcome by the Dominion increasing the amount on condition that special facilities are provided on the mail steamers for carrying Canadian dairy and other produce to the English market. The new steamers will be required to have a speed of twenty-one knots.

Another important undertaking likely to come up before the Canadian parliament is the proposed canal to connect Lakes Huron and Erie. The plan is to build the canal from some point on the eastern shore of Lake Huron to a point on Lake Erie between Rondeau harbor and Port Burwell. The Georgian Bay Canal company will also ask for an extension of two years' time.

Several railway charters will be applied for, the more important being the Manitoba and Northwestern, the Nipissing and Ottawa, which will run north and east from Lake Nipissing to the Ottawa river through the heart of the deer country; the Great Northern, which is ultimately intended to be a transcontinental line from Port Arthur to Quebec, and the Pacific by two roads through the Rockies—one from near Lake Manitoba through the Yellowstone pass and the other from Swan river through the Pine River pass to the Pacific coast near the Skeena river. The Canadian Pacific will ask for authority to own property outside of Canada.

A bill to create divorce courts will probably be introduced. At the last session a measure for this purpose was so strongly opposed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues that it was withdrawn. There has been a change of sentiment, however, and Chief Justice Meredith recently said that the "injustice of Canadian divorce laws prevented the poor man from having the privilege that the rich man had."

Divorces in Canada are granted by the senate. A committee of nine members is appointed before whom all divorce bills are laid. Its findings then as a matter of form, come before the senate and are ratified. This procedure costs all the way from $700 to $5,000.

Nobility Recommends Nervine.

The above portrait is that of Countess Mogelstud, of Chicago, Ill., whose gratitude for the benefit received from the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine prompted her to make this statement:

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to the very excellent merits of Dr. Miles' Nervine. Although I am past 80 years of age I find it soothes the tired brain, quiets the irritated nerves and insures restful sleep. I never feel contented without a bottle of it in the house." Thought She Was a Calf.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink was thirteen, her father was transferred to Gratz, where a singing teacher, Marietta von Leclair, recognizing the young girl's talent, offered to give her singing lessons without compensation. For two years she studied nothing but solfeggios. Then she began learning songs. She had a very deep contralto without any high notes at that time. One day a caller, hearing her sing Schubert's "Der Tod und das Madchen" in an adjoining room, said to her teacher, "I did not know that you taught young calves."

"She is not a young calf," replied Marietta von Leclair. "Some day she will be a great singer."—Gustav Kobbe in Woman's Home Companion.

The Antiquity of Wheat.

The Chinese cultivated wheat 2,700 years before the beginning of the Christian era, always considering it as a gift direct from heaven. Scientific agriculturists are of the opinion that it was widely known and cultivated by prehistoric man. At the present time it is the principal bread corn of the leading European nations and is fast supplanting the use of maize, or Indian corn, in the American states. The Egyptians attributed its origin to Isis and the Greeks to Ceres.

Cunningham & Duncan,

The Crescent as an Emblem.

The crescent has been known since time out of memory. In ancient mythology it decorated the foreheads of Diana and of Astarte, the Syrian Venus. In the days of Rome's greatest glory the ladies wore it as an ornament in their hair. Since the foundation of Constantinople, the ancient Byzantium, it has been the emblem of the city and as such adorns its walls and public buildings, besides being stamped on its coins and postage. The legend which accounts for its universal adoption in Turkey, and Constantinople in particular, is as follows:

Philip of Macedon laid siege to the city in the year 340 B. C. He chose a night of unusual darkness for the proposed assault, but was foiled by the moon suddenly breaking from behind a cloud. In commemoration of this providential deliverance the crescent was adopted as the symbol of the city. The Mohammedan sultans were slow to assume this emblem until some one mentioned that it was the symbol of increasing greatness, power changing as rapidly as the phases of the moon.

NATIONAL NEWS

Washington, D C. March 10, '02

The fight in the Senate over the Isthian Canal, which promises to be a battle royal, and entirely outside of party lines, opened this week with the report of the sub-committee of the Senate Canal committee against the acceptance of the offer of the Panama Canal Co. on account of title complications and for other reasons. The subcomittee which made this report is composed of Senators Morgan, Mitchell Kittridge, Pritchard, Foster (of La) and Turner. Mr, Kittridge will present a minority report, The next battle will be in the full committee of eleven members. All the side issues have been eliminatedand thefight willbe squarely between the Nicaragua and Panama routes. It is certain that the Nicaragua route will win in committee, as seven of the committee are known to favor it, while four are committed to the Panama route. It is equally certain that a majority of the Senate favor the Nicaragua route but the minority is a strong one — strong enough if so disposed to easily prevent any legislation on the subject. That is what the friends of a canal regardless of a route among whom the President is counted, now fear.

Talk of members of the Senate Finance committee, which this week took up the House bill for repeal of the war taxes, indicates that no material cut in the bill is contemplated before it is reported to the Senate. It will be amended, of course. Every Senate committee feels that every House bill of any importance must be amended, if for no other reason, just to impress upon Representatives how much more expert Senators are at the legislative game.

The civil service law gets another swat below the belt in the regular Legislative, Executive and Judical bill, passed by the Senate this week in a committee amendment placing about 700 clerks in the various departments in Washington, who were appointed on the temporary roll on account of the increase in work cansed by the war with Spain in the classified service without further examination.

The editor of the "La Lucha" a well known Havana paper who is now in Washington does not take a cheerful, view of Cuba's immediate future. He says nothing but annexation will place the island upon a peaceful and a prosperous basis, and that this government made a mistake in not from the first openly adopting a policy intended to lead up to annexation. He says the Cuban police or gendarmes can neither maintain order nor protect the plantations from the depredations of bandits, which to the number of 500 or 600, scattered in twenty or more bands though the sugar and tobacco belts, continue, even now as in the old Spanish days to collect backsheesh from the wealthy planters and to harass the small farmers. He significantly added that these bands of bandits are composed of the same class of men that were drawn upon by Gomez and Maceo to form the nucleus of the last Cuban revolution, and by designing parties might again be welded together to form a formidable opposition to the Cuban government shortly to be established.

Dodging is contageous The President will meet the dodging of the civil service law by the bill for a permanent Census Bureau, which extends the classified service to all employes of the roll of the Census Bureau and makes them eligible for transfer or appointment to other government departments without taking an examination with an executive dodge that will dodge the Congressional dodge. He will approve the bill but will prevent any of the clerks of the Pension Bureau getting any benefit out of the law, by instructing the heads of departments to ignore the claims of the Census clerks and make requisition upon the Civil Service Commission as usual, when they are in need of clerks. This is a little hard on those Census Clerks who have been expecting to get themselves permanently on Uncle Sam's payroll without passing a civil service examination but to the unprejudiced public it is merely a case of dodgers being beaten at their own game.

The House devoted the greater portion of this week to the debate on ths bill to change the rural free delivery service to the contract system and at times the debate was quite sharp, owing to charges and counter charges.

The Dinner Pail

Of the American working man is generally well filled. In some cases it is too well filled. It contains too many kinds of food, and very often the food is of the wrong kind—hard to digest and containing little nutrition. As a consequence many a working man develops some form of stomach trouble which interferes with his health and reduces his working capacity.

Where there is indigestion or any other indication of disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will almost invariably produce a perfect and permanent cure.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, of Sub Station C, Columbus, O., Box 103, writes: "I was taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once; the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die, thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks, I was weighed, and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

Lamb Crop Short.

The lamb crop will be short this year judging from different reports of the state. In this county the farmers say the loss of lambs is fully one third, and many ewes are dying. They say that ewes' heads seem to be affected—that they stand locking skyward and will occasionally shake their heads and fall to the ground. It is claimed that during the summer a fly very much on the order of a net fly deposits an egg inside of the sheep's wool which hatches a worm that bores its way to the brain and unless the worm is killed it means death to the sheep, Many say a mixture of turpentine and coal oil applied freely to the head will kill the worm as it is claimed the liniment will penetrate the skull,—Lebanon Enterprise.

Bad Negro Arrested

Policeman William Yowell, landed Howard Prewitt in jail here last Friday night, arriving with him on the night train from Louisville, where he made the arrest Friday afternoon. Prewitt has been a fugitive for several months, and is rather a slick coon, When arrested he was working in a tobacco factory in the west end of Louisville When Mr. Yowell walked in on him, the negro was very much surprised. 'Well, Howard,'' said Yowell, "isn't it about time you were going home?" "Guess it i Boss," said Prewitt, "I've been thinking about going home for some time. He told the officer that he had been working at various places in Louisville ever since he fled immediately after committing the crime charged against him. Prewitt who has long borne the reputation of being a bad nigger, went on the warpath one night a few months ago, and started a rough house in the negro barber shop near the depot. He was ejected, and the doors baricaded. He returned and finding the doors bolted he turned loose a gattling gun or some large weapon the ball going through the door and lodging in a negro by the name of Hardin, who died within a few days. At the request of county Judge Cooper, Governor Beckham offered a reward of $150 for Prewitt's arrest There were not a few who thought he was still hiding in this city. His father is sexton at the First Presbytarian church and the report got circulated that the boy was hiding in the basement and a few were certain they saw a figure in the belfry. The fact that Prewitt has been in Louisville all the time shows how absurd are some of the reports that gain circulation. The last grand jury returned an indictment against Prewitt for murder, and it is said that a very strong case will be made out against him.—Lebanon Falcon.

Pioneer Monk Dead.

Brother Antonine, the last of the pioneer Trappists who came over from France in 1848 to found the Abbey of Gethsemani in this county died Sunday morning. Several weeks ago he was ill with the grip, but apparently recovered. He ventured out too soon, caught cold and suffered a relapse. He never rallied.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning and was conducted with the impressive simplicity which marks the burial of the Trappist monk. Requiem mass was celebrated in the stone church after which all the brothers of the community gathered in the little cemetery and watched their old comrade consigned to earth Brother Antonine was buried in the brown cowl of the lay brother.

Brother Antonine wore the cowl of the Trappist for fifty five years. He was the oldest monk in this county and perhaps the oldest in the whole Trappist order. He was a native of France and was eighty five years of age. He entered the French Abbey of Mellery where the Trappist order was founded.

The shrunken little figure of Brother Antonine was familiar to all visitors to the famous home of the silent brotherhood. He was permitted to meet many of the Abbot's guests and he spoke interestingly of that long hard trip which he made to the new world so many years ago.

From the Standard.

A fine mare belonging to Mrs. Zadie Hoobs was stolen from her barn on the Samuels pike one night this week. After riding the animal nearly to death the party turned her loose. She returned home late the next day and is in danger of dying from the ill treatment she received,

Sheriff Cokendolpher and his deputies Messrs. James Vittitoe and Edward Bell took to the penitentiary at Frankfort yesterday the following prisoners convicted at the recent term of Circuit Court; Elijah Hazel, murder: 17 years, Ellis Allen, colored breaking into corncrib, two years, John Meyers and Dan McCarthy breaking into warehouse of New Haven Milling Co, one year each,

Messrs. John S. Kelley and George S. Fulton, of the Bardstown bar attended Circuit Court at Taylorsville this week, Mr, Kelley is one of the attorneys for the plaintiff in the suit of D. L. Woodson and Claud Downs against the latter's brother for $3.000 for breach of contract. Mr, Fulton has been engaged to defend Thos. Hunter, charged with the murder of Presley Walker Jr. Both cases are attracting much interest.

"Dr" Watson, the colored "physician" who located in Bardstown last spring and left owing everybody he could barrow a penny from a few weeks later seems to have gotten into serious trouble at Mount Sterling. From letters received by the authorities here it is learned that he has been arrested for alleged horse stealing and obtaining money by false pretenses. The "Doctor" is a pretty slick coon but it seems he has slipped up at last.

Mrs. Cecelia Warrell has sold her stock of groceries to Messrs. Preston Wells and Tom Conley, and will remove to Louisville where she will take charge of the purchasing agency of her sister-in-law Mrs. Ella P Shanley who recently died. Messrs. Wells and Conley are both well known and popular. The former is a native of Fairfield and is a son of Mr. Thos. D Wells. Mr. Conley has spent much of his time in Bardstown. Both gentlemen are full of push and enterprise and they will doubtless find no difficulty in succeeding.

ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain-habit puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes crooks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a worried expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

The complaints above named all yield to the action of Benson's Porous Plasters, and quickly too. Not only those, but colds and coughs, kidney and liver affections, all congestions and muscular strains, diseases of the chest, asthma and all ailments which are open to external treatment. It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plasters, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DISEASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes. The purest and best people are sometimes infected with this awful malady through handling the clothing, drinking from the same vessels, using the same toilet articles, or otherwise coming in contact with persons who have contracted it.

It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, sores and ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes ulcerated, the hair, eye brows and lashes fall out; the blood becoming more contaminated, copper colored splotches and pustular eruptions and sores appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even destroys the bones.

Ten years ago I contracted a bad case of Blood Poison. I was under treatment of a physician until I found that he could do me no good. Then began taking S.S.S. I commenced to improve at once and in a very short time all evidence of the disease disappeared. I took six bottles and today am sound and well.
R. M. Wall, Morristown, Tenn.

S. S. S. is a Specific for this loathsome disease, and cures it even in the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that pollutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system. Unless you get this poison out of your blood it will ruin you, and bring disgrace and disease upon your children, for it can be transmitted from parent to child. S. S. S. contains no mercury or potash, but is guaranteed a strictly vegetable compound.

American Winter Resorts

Americans who are unable or disinclined to brave the rigors of a northern February and March have no need to seek the West Indies or Mediterranean shores to find sunny skies and balmy breezes. Within the United States are many beautiful and fashionable winter resorts where the rude breath of old Boreas is unknown and the pleasures of outdoor life undisturbed by a suspicion of Jack Frost.

During the past decade the development of the east coast of Florida has converted a semitropical wilderness into a paradise where pleasure loving and health seeking mortals may revel in perpetual summer. Southern California, "The Land of Sunshine," is unsurpassed, even by the famous Riviera, and a visit to its flower embowered groves is like being transported to the land of "Arabian Nights."

Those who prefer the tonic influence of mountain airs will find in the hills of western North Carolina a climate that replaces languor with strength and vitality. So the American may easily get in his own country that which he often vainly seeks in foreign climes.

Palm Beach, Fla., is a most fascinating spot. It owes its delicious, balmy but not enervating climate to Lake Worth, which is an arm of the sea. A narrow strip of beach between the lake and the ocean is its site. Here, amid cocoanut groves and tropical gardens, one may listen to the orchestra and be cooled and comforted by fresh breezes from the gulf.

But resting is not the only diversion of Palm Beach. Bicycle chairs, propelled by a colored man mounted on a saddle behind the chair, take one swiftly through vistas of tropical foliage. Most beautiful of the avenues through which you are wheeled is that known as Half Mile walk, between two big hotels. On either side it is bordered by tall palmettos, the shorter cocoanut trees, oleander shrubs, with their pink clusters, and the hibiscus. These flowering shrubs, planted regularly between the rows of trees, produce a gorgeous effect when in bloom.

HALF MILE WALK, PALM BEACH, FLA.

The chief hostelry, the Royal Poinciana, is the largest hotel in the world. Large as it was last year and with The Breakers, also a mammoth in size, to take the overflow, the demand for accommodations was so great that even the billiard and reading rooms had to be utilized for sleeping rooms. This year the capacity of the Royal Poinciana has been increased by over 400 rooms.

Much of the charm of Palm Beach, in addition to its superb hotels and gardens, lies in the diversity of entertainment. There is a capital golf course. The links are liberally patronized. Fishing, too, is a popular sport. Both from the end of the pier, that juts into the gulf, and in Lake Worth it is superb—so fine, indeed, that Joe Jefferson, the inveterate angler, has given up his Louisiana winter home for Palm Beach. The bathing, both in the swimming pool and in the surf, is excellent. The temperature of the water on Christmas day was 78 degrees. Florida furnishes a variety of game for the winter, including crocodiles, alligators, deer, bear, panthers and a great variety of game birds.

Besides Palm Beach, St. Augustine, Ormond, Miami and many lesser known localities have large and splendid hotels, which each year draw thousands of northerners from their chilly clime to Florida's tropic delights.

South of Point Concepcion, on the coast of California, a range of wooded mountains follows the trend of the coast, curving at the south toward the Pacific, forming a circular mountain wall. Between these mountains and the ocean the country slopes gently, little rounded hills varying the landscape. The shore line curves inward between Concepcion and San Diego, and a line of islands protects the waters between. This is the land best known as southern California.

It is a land of flowers, birds and fruit. The climate is so mild that roses 800 days in the year. No country in the world is possessed of more pleasing seaside resorts. South of the thirty-fifth parallel, its semitropic sea permits of surf bathing the year round. Few storms disturb the placid waters of this part of the Pacific, hemmed in by a chain of islands that themselves have large possibilities as pleasure places.

The coast, picturesque and abrupt for many miles of its length, has beaches that for beauty and magnitude are not excelled anywhere. The fame of Santa Barbara is worldwide and Santa Monica, Long Beach, Terminal Island, Santa Catalina island and other resorts receive each winter an army of pleasure seekers from all over the United States and even from Europe.

And these resorts are well equipped to minister to the comfort and amusement of their guests. Fine hotels, boarding houses, hundreds of furnished cottages and tents, fishing wharfs, pavilions, modern bathhouses, etc., are among the permanent attractions.

CLIFF HOUSE AND BEACH, CALIFORNIA.

Santa Barbara faces a beautiful channel hemmed in by islands. Here is as fine a beach as ever ocean rolled on, with a boulevard that follows the surf for miles in an unbroken reach of asphalt pavement. Reaching out toward the mountains are beautiful drives and trails. The bathing is excellent, there being no undertow. At Santa Monica, a few miles from Los Angeles, besides the splendid bathing beach, there has recently been built a pleasure wharf which extends out 1,400 feet. Here those who prefer to fish from a more stable foundation than a boat have the ocean at their feet.

Santa Catalina island is the great island resort of the Pacific coast. It is twenty-two miles long and comprises mountain, valley and forest, winding trails and waterfalls. A magnificent scenic stage road traverses the mountain ranges. In the height of the winter season 5,000 or 6,000 persons are to be found on the island. There are a number of good hotels, but the tent villages, with macadamized roads lined with rows of trees, attract the crowds.

In the bay of Avalon children paddle about in boats that cannot be upset. Rowing, bathing and fishing are, in fact, the popular sports. There is no surf and no wind, and so clear is the water that all the wonderful vegetable and animal life may be distinctly seen through the glass bottomed boats which every day dot the surface of the bay. Sea lions unmolested clamber about and sleep on the rocks. But fish are the chief attraction of Santa Catalina. It is a wonderful fishing ground. Here is the home of the tuna, said to be the gamest of all fish. The giant sea bass, reaching a weight of 500 pounds; yellowtail, halibut, barracuda and other denizens of the deep are found in the greatest abundance. It is the fisherman's paradise.

Lovers of mountain scenery who have money and leisure betake themselves when northern winds blow chill to that rugged region that embraces the western portion of North Carolina and the eastern edge of Tennessee. Within these confines are several districts alike in general features, but differing in detail.

The one most generally visited has Asheville for its tourist center. None the less beautiful and healthful is the country about Blowing rock, and Grandfather's mountain. Southeast of Asheville are the Flat rock, Tyron and Sapphire regions, which attract many visitors. To the west is the Balsam mountain country, wild and Swisslike, with Haywood Sulphur Springs as the chief tourist rendezvous. Taken as a whole, "The Land of the Sky," as the region is called, is unequaled for accessibility, attractiveness and health.
